

FAIR HOUSING FOR OWNER- OCCUPIED HOMES

A Guide for Homeowners, Sellers,
Real Estate and Insurance Agents,
and Homeowners and Condominium
Associations in the Baltimore Region

Baltimore
Metropolitan Council

The Baltimore Regional Fair Housing Group consists of representatives from Baltimore City and Anne Arundel, Baltimore, Harford and Howard Counties, jurisdictions that receive federal housing funds directly from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD). This booklet is part of the work of the Baltimore Regional Fair Housing Group and its member jurisdictions to affirmatively further the goals of the Fair Housing Act.

The Fair Housing Group thanks Baltimore Neighborhoods, Inc. and the Maryland Commission on Civil Rights for their review and assistance in compiling this booklet. The Fair Housing Group also thanks HUD for its support under the Fair Housing Initiatives Program (FHIP) Education and Outreach Initiative.

Such interpretations do not necessarily reflect the views of the Federal Government.

Individuals and families wanting to buy a home in the Baltimore metropolitan area are protected against discrimination by federal, state, and local laws.

THIS BOOK SERVES THE FOLLOWING PURPOSES:

It provides general information on:

- The laws that prohibit discrimination in many of the jurisdictions in the Baltimore metropolitan area,
- Where you can go for more detailed information.

For homebuyers, it provides information on where you can file a complaint.

FAIR HOUSING PROTECTIONS

The federal Fair Housing Act and state and local laws protect people from many kinds of discrimination. Protections are noted on the table opposite this page. Federal and Maryland protections apply everywhere in Maryland.

Anne Arundel County Executive Order 26 establishes the County Human Relations Commission, which has no statutory enforcement power but whose objective is to receive and refer complaints of discrimination based upon race, creed, color, age, sex, disability, political affiliation, marital status, or national origin.

The City of Baltimore protects some sources of income (alimony and child support), but not others, such as rental assistance.

WHAT IS PROHIBITED?

A person selling housing is generally prohibited from doing the following based solely on the potential homebuyer's membership in a protected class identified in the table on page 5:

- Refuse to sell housing
- Refuse to negotiate for housing
- Otherwise make unavailable or deny a dwelling
- Set different terms, conditions, or privileges for sale of a dwelling
- Provide different housing services or facilities
- Falsely deny that housing is available for inspection or sale
- For profit, persuade, or try to persuade homeowners to sell (or rent) dwellings by suggesting that people of a particular race, etc. have moved, or are about to move into the neighborhood (blockbusting)
- Attempt to steer persons into or away from neighborhoods or developments
- Deny any person access to, or membership or participation in, any organization, facility, or service related to the sale of dwellings (such as a listing service), or discriminate against any person in the terms or conditions of such access, membership, or participation.

WHAT ARE EXCEPTIONS?

In some circumstances, the Fair Housing Act and other laws exempt:

- Owner-occupied buildings with no more than four units
- Single-family housing sold without the use of a broker
- Housing operated by organizations and private clubs that limit occupancy to members
- Some senior housing facilities and communities are exempt from liability for discrimination based on familial status.

Please contact one of the agencies listed on page 14 for more specific information on any of these exemptions.

WHAT ARE PROTECTIONS IN OBTAINING A MORTGAGE?

In general, no one may take any of the following actions based on the protected classes in the table on page 5:

- Refuse to make a mortgage loan
- Refuse to provide information regarding loans
- Impose different terms or conditions on a loan, such as different interest rates, points, or fees
- Discriminate in appraising property
- Refuse to purchase a loan
- Set different terms or conditions for purchasing a loan

ADDITIONAL PROTECTIONS

No one may:

- Refuse to consider both applicants' incomes
- Threaten, coerce, intimidate, or interfere with anyone exercising a fair housing right or assisting others who exercise the right
- Commit acts of prejudice, violence, harassment, intimidation, or abuse directed against families or individuals or their residential property.

No one may, on the basis of a class identified in the table on page 5:

- Make, print, or publish any statement, in connection with the sale of a dwelling, which indicates a preference, limitation, or discrimination. This prohibition applies to single-family and owner-occupied housing that is otherwise often exempt from the laws that prohibit discrimination in housing.
- Make, print, or publish any statement, in conjunction with the provision of homeowner's insurance coverage, which indicates a preference, limitation, or discrimination.

No one may, on the basis of a protected class identified in the table on page 5 of either the owner or occupants of a dwelling:

- Refuse to provide homeowners insurance coverage
- Discriminate in the terms or conditions of homeowners insurance coverage
- Refuse to provide available information on the full range of homeowners insurance coverage options available

FAMILIAL STATUS

In general, familial status protections cover:

- Households in which one or more children under 18 years old live with:
 - A parent
 - A person who has legal custody (including guardianship)
 - The designee of a parent or legal custodian (designated with written permission)
- A pregnant woman
- Any person in the process of securing legal custody of a child under 18.

As a result of this protection, sellers and real estate and insurance agents are not allowed to ask prospective homebuyers about birth control or family planning practices.

The Fair Housing Act and other laws specifically exempt some senior housing facilities and communities from liability for discrimination based on familial status. (They are not exempt from liability for other forms of housing discrimination.) Please contact one of the agencies listed on page 14 if you need more details on exactly which senior facilities and communities qualify for this exemption.

ADDITIONAL PROTECTIONS FOR PEOPLE WITH DISABILITIES

Fair housing protections generally apply if a person or someone associated with a person:

- Has a physical or mental disability (including hearing, mobility, and visual impairments, cancer, chronic mental illness, HIV/AIDS, or being in recovery from substance abuse) that substantially limits one or more major life activities,
- Has a record of such a disability, or
- Is regarded as having such a disability.

These protections do not apply to a person who:

- Is a direct threat to the health or safety of others or
- Currently uses illegal drugs or uses legal drugs illegally

If these fair housing protections apply, a housing provider (including a homeowners' or condominium association) may not do the following:

- Refuse to let a homeowner or prospective homeowner make reasonable modifications to his/her dwelling or common use areas, at the homeowner's expense, if it is necessary for the homeowner to fully use the housing.
- Refuse to make reasonable accommodations in rules, policies, practices, or services if it may be necessary for the homeowner to use the housing on an equal basis with persons who do not have disabilities. (For example, a condominium pet policy may not be applied to a homeowner or prospective homeowner who has an assistance, service, or companion animal to address his or her disability.)

SEXUAL ORIENTATION AND GENDER IDENTITY

The federal Fair Housing Act does not specifically include sexual orientation and gender identity in the protected classes. However,

- The State of Maryland and some local governments do specifically prohibit discrimination based on sexual orientation (see table on page 5).
- The State of Maryland (effective October 1, 2014), Howard and Baltimore Counties, and Baltimore City specifically prohibit discrimination based on gender identity (also noted in table on page 5).
- Some sexual orientation or gender identity housing discrimination may still be covered by other federal Fair Housing Act protections, such as discrimination on the basis of a person's sex.
- HUD regulations prohibit Federal Housing Administration (FHA)-insured lenders from taking actual or perceived sexual orientation into consideration in determining adequacy of an applicant's income.

AGE

Baltimore County and Howard County law protects against age discrimination generally. Other jurisdictions enforce this protection in particular ways:

- In Baltimore City, age is defined as the "Age of Majority" and refers to anyone who has attained the age of eighteen years.
- Harford County enforces discrimination against people age 40 and above.
