Candidate Biography

Rob was first elected Alderman for Ward 7 in 2017 and has chaired the City's Environmental Matters Committee during his tenure on the Council.

Rob has made his home in Annapolis for over 20 years with his wife Becca and son Whit. He fell in love with the Chesapeake Bay while earning his degree in Environmental Studies (minor in Business Management) at Washington College.

His professional career started with the Chesapeake Bay Program, supporting the efforts to restore the Chesapeake Bay. From there he worked for a number of years in private consulting as an Environmental Scientist, Ecological Restoration Scientist, and Sustainability Specialist, before starting his career with local government. That career started with the City of Annapolis, where he was the Sustainability Coordinator and Environmental Compliance Inspector, reviewing development projects and authoring the City's climate action plan. Now he works for Anne Arundel County as an Engineer/Project Manager for stormwater management projects, managing a multi-million dollar budget.

In his free time, he enjoys spending his time with his family going on hikes, boating, and working for positive change in the community.
